

PEOPLE THAT DELIVER

Promoting sustainable workforce excellence in health supply chain management

Chain Up: Women connecting across international health supply chains

11 July 2019
2019 Health & Humanitarian Logistics Conference
Kigali, Rwanda

www.peoplethatdeliver.org

- Welcome and Intro (5 minutes)
- Roundtable discussions (20 minutes)
- Report out from roundtables (10 minutes)
- Q&A (5 minutes)
- Slack Group (15 minutes)
- Wrap up and close (5 minutes)

- Health and Humanitarian Logistics and Supply Chains: A Career for Women by Pamela Awuor Steele
- WISCL - women in supply chain leadership
 - Nairobi, Addis, Lagos
- 2018 Women in Supply Chain Research conducted by Awesome and Gartner
- SAPICS 2018 & 2019 Women in Supply Chain panels

Special Thanks to Chain Up Visionary Alyssa Palmer

"The mission of Chain Up is to internationally connect women working in the health supply chain who believe supply chains save lives. The divide between the pharmaceutical sector and global health is closing, and we want to ensure that women who have been managing these health supply chains, and who are the experts on their regions health supply chains, are aware of and promoted into leadership roles as they come available in their countries, and internationally."

- Nadiya Jiwa, Mbeya Referral Hospital, IAPHL Sponsorship Recipient, Tanzania
- Rebecca Kinney, Director of Global Health Partnerships, Parsyl
- Magdalena Lopez, Supply Chain Officer, Médecins sans Frontières
- Victoria Mulbah, Chief for Supply Chain and Logistics, The Liberian National Public Health Institute (NPHIL)

Roundtable Discussion Report Out

Question & Answer

Join the Chain Up Slack Group

Chain Up ▾

● Alexis Strader

Jump to...

Threads

Channels

-getting-started

-introductions

conference_wlgh-2019

jobs

conference_hhl-2019

+ Add a channel

Direct Messages

♥ Slackbot

● Alexis Strader (you)

○ AlyssaPalmer

○ Dominique Zwinkels

● Greg Fitzgerald

#-getting-started

☆ | 8 | 1 | start here to learn more about the group and how to use Slack!

Monday, July 1st

Pinned by @AlyssaPalmer

AlyssaPalmer 11:38 PM

Hello!

We created this Slack 'team' to connect women working across the international health supply chain. The mission of this platform is built on the assumption that by connecting women across the supply chain – from those managing pre-clinical supply in a lab to those coordinating last mile delivery in humanitarian settings – we can design more efficient and effective supply chains to better serve patients around the world.

We encourage you to this slack channel for the following activities,

- 1) connect with women in your local region as well as internationally
- 3) post and find opportunities for employment, research, and board positions
- 4) ask and give career advice to accelerate the next generation of women supply chain leaders
- 5) and so much more!

The idea is for this to be a positive community and supportive network; a place to share your insights and information and build connections with the purpose of increasing opportunities in global health for women supply chain managers.

You are welcome to invite other women supply chain professionals who specialize in health supply chains to this group by clicking on +Invite People. Or you can connect them with me via email- alyssacpalmer@gmail.com

USING THIS SLACK GROUP:

» say hello // introduce yourself in the #-introductions channel

+ Message #-getting-started

<https://tinyurl.com/ChainUp>

What is “Slack?”

Slack is essentially a chat room designed to replace email as a method of communication and sharing. Its workspaces allow you to organize communications by channels for group discussions and allows for private messages to share information, files, and more all in one place.

What is the purpose of the Chain Up Slack Channel?

The mission of this platform is built on the assumption that by connecting women across the supply chain we can design more efficient and effective supply chains to better serve patients around the world. We encourage you to this slack channel for the following activities

- 1) connect with women in your local region as well as internationally
- 2) post and find opportunities for employment, research, and board positions
- 3) ask and give career advice to accelerate the next generation of women supply chain leaders

The idea is for this to be a positive community and supportive network; a place to share your insights and information and build connections with the purpose of increasing opportunities in global health for women supply chain managers.

Join the Chain Up Slack group by registering via this link: <https://tinyurl.com/ChainUp>

Thank you!

- Subscribe to PtD's newsletter (e-mail info@peoplethatdeliver.org)
- Follow PtD on Twitter (@PplthatDeliver)
- Follow PtD on LinkedIn (www.linkedin.com/company/people-that-deliver)

Contact the PtD Secretariat:

Dominique Zwinkels
Executive Manager
dzwinkels@unicef.org

Alexis Strader
Project Officer
astrader@unicef.org